

REMARKSI. Status of the Claims

Applicants cancel pending claims 1-7 and 9-16 in favor of new claims 17-22, which better define the invention and are fully supported by the original disclosure (see pp. 10-11). Upon entry of the amendment, claims 17-22 will remain for consideration.

II. Response to the Section 103 Rejection based on Schulte

The rejection of claims 5, 6, 11, and 12 under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as unpatentable over Schulte (WO 03/106470 and its family, including U.S. Publ. 2005/0182266) is rendered moot by cancellation of these claims. However, because the Examiner may consider Schulte to have similar applicability to new claims 17-22, they respectfully ask her to consider the following remarks.

At the time Applicants made their invention, Schulte and the instant invention were commonly owned; both are currently assigned to Basell Polyolefine GmbH (see attached Assignment Details from the USPTO website).

Additionally, Schulte qualifies as prior art only under Section 102(e) because: (a) Schulte's earliest publication date is after Applicants' presumptive invention date (i.e., the provisional filing date); and (b) Schulte's applications had not been published for more than one year before Applicants filed a patent application.

In particular, Schulte's earliest documents, DE 10226182 and corresponding PCT Int. Publ. WO 2003/106470, published on December 24, 2003 (see attached MicroPatent® Family Lookup summary).

The present application entered the U.S. national phase on June 7, 2006 but is based on PCT Appl. No. PCT/EP2004/12358, filed on November 2, 2004. Moreover, the PCT application claims 35 USC § 119(e) priority from provisional U.S. Appl. No. 60/528591, filed December 11, 2003.

Thus, Section 103(c) applies to disqualify Schulte as prior art, and the Examiner should therefore reconsider and withdraw the Section 103(a) rejection.

III. Conclusion

In view of the remarks above, Applicants respectfully ask the Examiner to reconsider and withdraw the rejection and pass the case to issue. Applicants invite the Examiner to telephone their attorney at (610) 359-2276 if she believes that a discussion of the application might be helpful.

I hereby certify that this correspondence is being deposited with the United States Postal Service as first-class mail, with sufficient postage, in an envelope addressed to: Commissioner for Patents, P.O. Box. 1450, Alexandria, VA 22313-1450 on June 13, 2008.
